Quetzalcoatl speaks:

Hello, beloved ones. Hello beloved beings of great light, peace, joy, and recognition.

Beyond the Constraints of Density

Hello from the energies of worlds beyond worlds beyond worlds. Let us offer to thee the recognition to go beyond even the understanding or comprehension of a world.

To be within the view of “a world” is to be within the energy, to be within the belief, to be within the paradigm of one aspect of a limitless being.

Imagine if you will, through the lens you are able to use now, and a world of density only offering to yourself one aspect of infinite understanding. Imagine how constrained that must feel. Imagine the eternal and internal struggle it would create. When one is able to recognize the infinite one, then all oneness appears simultaneously.

There is a great definition of this in your world and a well-known book. This book known as Bhagavad Gita. In this book Bhagavad Gita it describes the ever infinite Krishna. It describes how Krishna reveals the infinite to the one who is seeking, because the one who is seeking says, "I must know. I must see. Offer me some form of proof."

And when the Krishna allowed the one who is seeking to have the essence of a one world view removed from the eyes of this being, then this being is able to see that before him at all times was the infinite limitless being of the Krishna.

And when the Krishna begins to show this infinite beingness, not all of that is what the experience of a world consciousness would consider to be beautiful. It is described as some of the revelations of the infinite being are monstrous, frightening, too large to even comprehend. And because there is no end, because the infinite energy keeps revealing, revealing, revealing, revealing, even with the gift of the wakened eye. The seeker then says, "Stop, no more. It is too much."

Questioning as The Journey to Awakening

And so, the infinite comes back into a form known as Krishna. The seeker restores the vision. And while the understanding, and the comprehension, have expanded the experience of the being in form, the greater recognition of the impossibility of being able to comprehend the limitlessness while in form, is the greater gift of this story, the greater gift of this moment. When one is in form, one begins to question us. Everything.

This is a way of awakening. It is a way to begin the journey. It evolves through the form that is asked. It evolves through the journey. It becomes at a point what many have evolved into the term self inquiry.

In the recognition of self-inquiry, there is first recognition of "a self", which in and of itself means there is already a determination of lack of limitlessness.

However it is the spark of the limitlessness that is the expanded light being known as self.

Selflessly serving through assuming forms of density to expand infinitely.

That is a big statement. That is a statement that you are encouraged to review often. That is a statement you are encouraged to meditate on...And with...And through.

For when one is able to transcend the need to ask, then all that is left is the understanding.

This does not mean that the questioning stops, for indeed part of the greater gift that we seek to offer to thee is the recognition of the greater question. This does not imply a higher or lower. We choose the word greater to imply beyond a world alignment. The greater universe. The greater expanded, limitless perception.

To apply the mind of density to a limitless world can be not kind.

Because how many times have you or a being of great light and love that you know, touched the infinite, only to be greatly depressed at a time when they feel they are not touching it?

How many do you know have relentlessly searched for the bliss, only to feel the sense of self-judgment and sabotaged that they have a perception of having not attained this?

How many do you know that strive for enlightenment, and yet feel less than because they deny themselves the recognition of being enlightened?

We offer these discernments to you, because it will indeed offer to thee the freedom to break through a world of limited perception. And this does not in any way infer that you cannot comprehend the limitless.

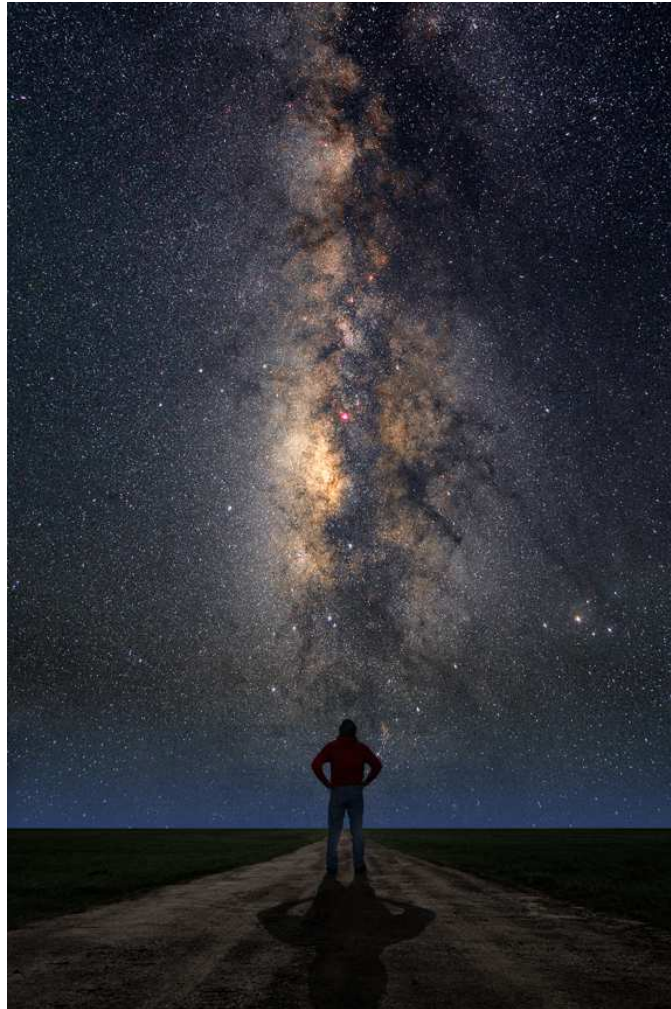

It does however seek to offer the comfort that it is and has always been your true reality. To anchor this truth without doubt is to expand through the limited one world perception, and to expand through the limited one world perception is to offer to thyself the limitless gaze without the need to experience the overwhelm of the application of density.

Divine Timing

Why is this important at this time? Why is this important to know? Because beloved ones, the world-view with in the planet Gaia is getting ever smaller and smaller. The view feels safer when a wall can be built around it for those who are unable to see the greater picture at hand. When one is unable to see the greater view, the larger view, that all of the pieces must come together to form the totality, then safety can only be found in a greatly restricted paradigm. To be awake in restricted paradigm, can also create its own limiting beliefs of fear, unworthiness, depression, a sense of not belonging, a sense of what am I doing here why should I stay. For many of you have great light had been calling to us saying, why should I stay? I want to move on.

We come to you to say, everything happens in its perfect divine timing.
To rush that timing or try to force that timing is to deny the greater gifts at hand.
Every breath, every moment, offers to thee the opportunity to have great light, great light.
You are great light.

You are light filled and the light is on. The light will continue to be on because you cannot stop it. However, the shrinking worldview, the limited aspect of the world, is seeking to take your light through fear and intimidation.

ARCHANGELIC INSOULMENT

These are great gifts because you recognize where you are and what you feel is to recognize it is your moment for the greater gift to come forward from thee, with thee, and through thee.

You are the greater gift. You are a limitless being. You are able to see the infinite without fear because you are the infinite. The greater question within is what will propel you to solve the greater challenges that come forward from without.

Allow yourself this as we move forward with great harmony. And invite now, the Sri Ram Kaa to offer to us the question of the greater community. We invite the question Sri Ram Kaa known as 29¹.

Sri Ram Kaa shares:

This person writes...

"I find it more and more difficult to put questions in words. I trust you to understand my question beyond the restrictions of the words I write. After this last big energy shift in July, I witnessed in myself and many others a variety of physical symptoms. I feel my body trying to free itself of old energies. I know karma has been released we are free to create our new future. Through many TOSA courses, I have released all that I am aware of in this life and others. My question is, how do I support my body as it is releasing old energies when I have no awareness of what I am still holding on to?"

Quetzalcoatl continues:

This is a powerful question, because it is a question that is being asked by many. Yes. There are many physical symptomology's. Many will feel these especially in the areas of joints and spine. Joints and spine. The joints because of the mobility that is needed to navigate the energy that has come forward now.

The body is learning how to swim in a different being-ness. In a different let us say pool of water. So as the body is learning to swim again, the body is asking how do I learn to navigate this way. The spine is coming forward because of it is saying I do not understand where the support is, for the recognition of the instability of the Gaia, is no longer hidden from any cellular construct. Every cellular construct on this planet now yields the fact that Gaia can no longer give support. Indeed Gaia is seeking support. Indeed Gaia is seeking support. So in order to be able to sustain the physical form, it is a powerful moment of learning how to enlighten the physical form. Enlighten the physical form through much breath, movement, great joy, lifting light up, opening the feet chakras, and bringing energy up, up, up. Illuminating and staying In-lightened.

There is also the great recognition now that it is important to maintain without doubt.

To maintain with out doubt is to trust every moment with that soft smile of endearing recognition that all indeed all is unfolding perfectly.

We send you... Air ...

We send you... Breath...

We send you... The wind of the universe

The Wind of the Universe

Breathe in the wind of the universe. And as you breathe in the wind of the universe, feel thyself uplift. Lift, lift, lift, lift, lift, lift, lift, lift, lift the arms. Feel the wind of the universe. Feel thy selves in the great movement of the up and down of great wings made of great light.

In this energy comes the freedom and expansiveness to move forward without the need to understand.

The need to understand comes from density.

The ability to navigate with trust is the limitless connection with the form that you are and now bringing you into the expansiveness of all that will ever be.

We come to you today in a great form. Many know our form and have spoken of our form as Quetzalcoatl, as a winged one, as a great bird. As you feel it our form feel yourself become filled great wings and energy.

We are soaring now over all great bodies of water and we are, as they say, floating with you.

Ignite yourself to feel the ignition of these great wings of light.

And from the universal winged understanding, you will once again restore the balance of harmony within thee.

The universal and the cosmic energy will assist thee. And you will effortlessly move forward.

Allow yourself to receive the wind of the universe, to lift up your arms again, to be free and feel myself hovering over the great bodies of water. And as you do this, and as you feel this, you will find yourself answering all that is ever possibly ready to be asked. And you will find that in this gift you are easily able to navigate this moment, all moments, for you are limitless. And you are free. And you are brilliant. And you are flying. And so it is.
